George B. Cortelyou, Charles Loeffler.

It is stated on authority that the Mc-Kinley estate will total $225,000 to $250,-000, including life insurance of $67,000. Aside from this insurance, the estate consists of real estate here and contiguous to Canton, and of deposits in Washington banks. Monday morning has been fixed by the probate court for a hearing prior to probating the will. Then it is expected Secretary Cortelyou and Judge Day will be finally appointed administrators of the estate, with the will annexed, and will give bonds.

Secretary Cortelyou made the neces sary affidavit to-day as to the genuineness of the signature of the president and of his own. Mr. Loeffler will reach here to-morrow

The will is in the late president's own handwriting and is on executive mansion letter paper.

CZOLGOSZ AZ AUBURN. The Sheriff's Account of the Trouble

N. Y., Sept. 27.-Sheriff

Caldwell returned this afternoon from Auburn whither he took Leon F. Czolgosz last night. His account of the excitement outside of the prison when the assassin of President McKinley arrived was as follows:
"We arrived in Auburn at 3:15 o'clock this morning and there was a crowd of about 200 people outside the prison when he reached there.

'As soon as we reached Auburn, we hurried Czolgosz out towards the pris-The crowd quickly surrounded us and there were cries of Kill him,' 'Kill him,' 'Throw bricks at him.'

"No bricks were thrown, however, and we got him into the prison without anyone being much hurt. Some of us were bruised a little in the crowding against the gate. We closed the gates the minute the members of our party were all inside. Czolgosz collapsed as soon as he entered the prison-to say that he went all to pieces is the best way I can describe it. He fell to the floor and yelled and shouted and his arms and legs jerked round as if he could not control them at all. 'We took off his clothes and I stooped down beside him and said: 'Czolgosz, don't you know me?' He didn't seem to recognize me at all but just rubbed his eyes and shouted incoherently. He did not say anything we could understand-I guess he was too frightened to try to talk. He just yelled and hollered like a crazy man. After the doctor came and gave him something he quieted down and then I left.'

BIG RANSOM FOR MISS STONE. 25,000 Turkish Pounds Demanded Young Woman Heard From

Constantinople, September 26.—The Rev. H. C. Haskell, a missionary at Samakov, Bulgaria, has received a letter from Miss Helen H. Stone, the American missionary who was carried off by brigands on September 5, in the district of Djumabala. It does not reveal the whereabouts of Miss Stone but says that she is in good health and has been well treated by the brigands, especially in the earlier stages of the abduction. Latterly, in consequence of the vigorous pursuit of Turkish troops, she has been subjected to privations.

Miss Stone adds that the brigands de mand a ransom of 25,000 Turkish pounds. The opinion is expressed in Constantinople that the Bulgaro-Macedonian committee was actively oncerned in the abduction of the missionary.

HIS STATEMENTS GENERALLY UN-FAVORABLE TO SCHLEY.

Declares That Conling Off Santiago at the Time the Retrograde Movement Commenced Was Perfectly Feasible-Informed Schley Positively That the Spanish Squadron Was Rot at Clenfuegos-Did Not, However, Tell Him the Secret Code of Communicating With the Cabaus.

Washington, Sept. 27 .- The principal witneses before the Schley court of inquiry to-day were Lieut. Hood, who commanded the despatch boat, The Hawk, during the Spanish war and Capt. Bowman H. McCatla, who was in ommand of the Marblehead.

The testimony of both these officers Hays, president of the Southern Pacific dealt with the delivery of despatches from Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley and both related conversations with the commodore. Capt. McCalla detailed his part in arranging a code of signals with the Cuban insurgents and his communications with them near Cientuegos, May 24, 1898, when it was learned definitely that Cerverals fleet was not in the harbor then. He said that Capt. Chadwick, who was Admiral Sampson's chief of staff, was the only person at Key West to whom he had communicated the signal code. Capt. McCalla expressed that coaling was feasible off Santiago at the time Schley began his retrogade movement and that Schley had not gone with all despatch to Santiago according to or ders. The court also decided to investigate the charges in the original despatch of Admiral Schley to the navy department.

Important Testimony in Detail. Lieut. Hood said that on May 23 he had delivered dispatches from Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley when the latter was off Clenfuesgos. He related that he had been called aboard the New York, Admiral Sampson's flag-(Continued on the Third Page).

H., September 2, asking that Messrs. Stayton and Campbell be allowed to represent him in the case. The court decided that they could not appear.

The following reply was sent to Admiral Sampson:

Court of Inquiry Navy Yard, Washington, Sept. 27, 1901. Admiral: I am to-day in receipt through W. H. Stayton, of your letter of the ninth inst, requesting that Messrs, Stayton and Campbell be permitted to appear before the court of inquiry as your counsel to represent your interests. In reply you are advised that the court does not at this time regard you as a party to the case now before it and therefore is unable to comply with your request.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

THE REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING WAS HELD LAST NIGHT.

Review of the Estimates for 1901-1902 Made-Changes in This Year's List-Reports of the Different Committees Heard and Accepted-Evening School

The regular meeting of the board of education was held last night and the absentees were President Whitney, Mr. Harmount and Mr. Jackson, Mr. Hook-r presided over the meeting. The most important business, and that which took up most of the time of the meeting, was the reviewing of the estimates to be submitted to the board of finance on Thursday October 10. In this list the board will make a few requests for increases over the appropriations of last year. An important part of the report of the committee on schools was regarding the appropriaions to be asked for from the board of finance, this part of the report being

The committee recommends that the board of education ask the board of finance to appropriate for the calendar schools $294,000. The present salary list for the school year ending July 1, 1902, is (September 20) $292,430. The appropriation for the calendar year 1901 was $290,400. Of this amount ($290.400) the board of finance appropriated $290,000 in the annual appropriations. Later $300 was appropriated for opening additional rooms at the Woodward school. The finance committee of the board of education appropriated; additional teacher at this school.

The appropriation recommended by the committee on schools for salaries of teachers of the day schools is an in-crease of $3,600 over the appropriation for 1901, and an increase of $h570 over present salary list. The cause of this increase in the amount asked for is the natural and necessary growth of the school system. During the last five years, the average annual increase in the number of registered pupils has

This increase in the number of pupils makes a new school building nearly every year. In any case new rooms must be opened and additional teachers em-ployed annually. It is chiefly to this fact that the increase in the salary list is due. The increase asked for is, of course, an estimate, but we believe it is not in excess of what is needed for the efficient and economical adminis-tration of our schools.

In another part of the report the an-nouncement of the appointment of eve-ning school teachers was made and they are as follows:

PLANS FOR BI-CENTENNIAL.

MEETING AT COLLEGE SIREET HALL LAST NIGHT.

thusinstic-Dramatics Will Need 250 the "Good Old Songs," Must Gather

In preparation for the big Yale bientennial, and to take action on plans for the celebration, a mass meeting was called for last evening and, being called by the Yale faculty, it was very fully attended. There were nearly a thousand students present at College street hall, and they proved that the old Yale spirit is still in existence. In brief, the extent of the plans for the bi-centennial celebration were described and discussed. There were representatives present from all the academic and scientific departments of the university, with the exception of the freshmen, who were not asked to partici-

Of course, the whole thing was Yale, and there was no gramme. On the platform were Presi dent Hadley, Professor Perrin and Dr. Reed. There is not a student in the university who does not realize the importance of the coming celebration, and last evening's meeting, lasting only half an hour, was merely a family gather-ing to talk the matter over and make everybody help a little more in empha-sizing the fact that this is to be the greatest celebration that the present Yale generation will ever see, and that nothing is too good for the biechtennial.

President Hadley gave a five-minute talk in opening. He was applauded from start to finish. He spoke right from the shoulder, telling the hundreds of young men that this is the greatest thing that ever has happened to Yale; that there never has been a period in college life when co-operation was so much to be desired. He spoke of the coming to this celebration of the president of the United States, of presidents of foreign educational institutions, leaders in thought and learning from everywhere on the globe. This is a tre-mendous chance for Yale. The college must rise to the occasion and make the week memorable. The students must show what Yale can do when thorough ly aroused. President Hadly urged the personal effort of every man toward completing the celebration in perfect fullness. There should be no laggards; every man must feel his responsibility and do his duty, adding his part to the complete whole. There was great applause as the head of Yale closed. Pres ident Hadley had struck the key-note and every man was with him. Professor Perin talked more especial-ly of the details of the celebration. Two hundred and fifty volunteers from the college ranks are wanted for the dramatics. The amphitheater is already prepared, everything is ready for the festivities, but the services of 250 students are necessary to make the affair a complete success, and, as Professor Perrin said, "they will get front seats and seats will be in demand."

Then there is the Yale chorus, and it will be one of the great features of the bi-centennial. Just 300 voices, more or less, are wanted to lead in these Yale songs, the old songs, the good songs the songs that have put the ball over the bar with only a minute to play Professor Perrin told about this. leadership of 300 voices is to signal and wave the baton for 6,000 voices on the campus, with bands to help along. Volunteers in the 300 are asked to meet for first rehearsal next Wednesday even-

NORTH HAVEN REPUBLICANS.

Nominated Town Officers at a Caucus Last Night.

The North Haven republicans held caucus last evening for the purpose of nominating candidates for town offices to be voted for at the election on October 7. The caugus was held in the town hall and was largely attended, 103 votes being cast. The only contest which developed was that over the nomination of a candidate for first selectman and the contest over that pl was very slight. For the position name of ex-Representative Walter D. Patten, now a member of the state board of agriculture, was presented Mr. Patten is the present first select man of the town. The name of Henry D. Todd, who was first selectman a few years ago, was also presented and th vote resulted as follows: Patten,

For second selectman Clarence Frost was renominated and the en town ticket how in office was renominated with the exception of grand ju ated with the exception of grand juror. The present incumbent of that office is George J. Merz. Mr. Merz is station agent at the North Haven depot and his duties there prevent him from acting as grand juror. Therefore George W. Williams was nominated.

After the nominations had been made there was a discussion of the question of holding a constitutional convention. George J. Merz. Gen. E. D. S. Goodyear and others spoke strongly against the convention.
